

Abstract

A children's water toy that has a base unit for directing flow of a fluid in a substantially vertical direction and a spraying unit configured to receive fluid from the base member and rebound the fluid to direct it out of the bottom of the spraying unit so 5 that the spraying unit is maintained aloft by the fluid pressure.